Those people doing it are living with mental health issues, "Cole told BlackPressUSA. "They feel like they're never needed the way they used to be.

Symptoms of depression and anxiety are dramatically on the rise among children and populations at high-risk. But throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, the percentage of 11- to 17-year-olds who have reported thoughts of suicide or self-harm more than doubled within the previous two weeks.

"Addressing the mental health needs of children in our country isn't just a moral imperative..." said Nathaniel Counts, J.D., Mental Health America's President. "It's one of the most prevalent public health issues our country faces. The problem must be addressed in a way that allows parents and their children to have access to the services they've already entitled to. This is especially the case for families in Black, Indigenous, and People of Color communities that have often faced systemic denial of access to quality care."

The Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act, Medicaid, and the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act all have policies that ensure parents can have their children screened and treated for whatever mental and behavioral health concerns their child may be experiencing right now. The problem, as the Coverage of Services to Promote Children's Mental Health report explains, is a lack of resources and real mental health services. Many of these protections are currently being overlooked or violated.

"The COVID-19 crisis shines a light on our need for social distancing, and the need for real mental health resources, we need to make sure that our children can be experiencing right now. It's a clear indication of the importance of the Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act, and that parents can have their children screened and treated for whatever mental and behavioral health concerns their child may be experiencing right now."

Prompts Experts To Create A Policy Guide for Parents, Policymakers

The World Health Organization notes that 1 in 4 people worldwide will experience mental health issues at some point in their lives. Historically, fashion designer and industry icon Kenneth Cole has been an advocate for individuals affected by a mental disorder at some point in their lives.

"Kenneth Cole is a fashion designer and industry icon Kenneth Cole. He has been an advocate for individuals affected by a mental disorder at some point in their lives. His example, together with the fashion and apparel industry, is a powerful example of how we can work together to change the narrative and help people feel more comfortable talking about mental health issues."

By Stacy M. Brown, NNPA Newswire Senator Sanders-Smith was recognized for her efforts in the coalition's Social Action Committee, which identified seven areas of concern for our community. Sanders-Smith told GDN.

Patti Sanders-Smith ~ Congressman John Lewis~

"Good Trouble" Award

"People need to have..." Sanders-Smith insists. "And every body's got a story to tell. It's overwhelming. Two-thirds of those people are doing it in the shadows because they don't know how to confront it. They don't know how to deal with it," he pointed out.

"But this year, Cole started the Mental Health Coalition and joined forces with the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) to help shift the narrative and reframe the conversation. Together, the organizations want people to know that they're not alone in their struggle with mental illness. They are encouraging everyone to vocalize their battles and seek the help they need."

"Silence is not something we can continue to accept. People are afraid of being judged and persecuted," Cole pointed out. "But this year, Cole started the Mental Health Coalition and joined forces with the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) to help shift the narrative and reframe the conversation. Together, the organizations want people to know that they're not alone in their struggle with mental illness. They are encouraging everyone to vocalize their battles and seek the help they need."

A good news is that Elizabeth City, home to Barnwell State School, has the highest percentage of people who are vaccinated in the state and are in their 18 to 25-aged group. The community is better prepared to handle the pandemic and is making progress.

For 23 years, the HBCU Coalition of Pitt County – a partnership of several HBCU alumni organizations – has been sponsoring and hosting a college fair that brings in hundreds of students.

"It is vital that no one is left behind in this process, and that everyone who is a part of our effort has the opportunity to learn and grow."

Ms. Brenda K. Jones is proud to partner with Well Being Trust, a guide to help parents, organizations, and policymakers make the hard choices to promote Children's Mental Health. Together, the organizations have been working hard to make sure that our children are safe, healthy and able to equitably access the resources they need.

"The COVID-19 crisis shines a light on our need for social distancing, and the need for real mental health resources, we need to make sure that our children can be experiencing right now. It's a clear indication of the importance of the Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act, and that parents can have their children screened and treated for whatever mental and behavioral health concerns their child may be experiencing right now."

Prompts Experts To Create A Policy Guide for Parents, Policymakers

The World Health Organization notes that 1 in 4 people worldwide will experience mental health issues at some point in their lives. Historically, fashion designer and industry icon Kenneth Cole has been an advocate for individuals affected by a mental disorder at some point in their lives.

"Kenneth Cole is a fashion designer and industry icon Kenneth Cole. He has been an advocate for individuals affected by a mental disorder at some point in their lives. His example, together with the fashion and apparel industry, is a powerful example of how we can work together to change the narrative and help people feel more comfortable talking about mental health issues."

In September 2020, more than half of 15- to 24-year-olds reported having thoughts of suicide or self-harm more than half of 11- to 17-year-olds reported – and far too few are getting mental health services.

"The good news is that the African American community – is as well as Black women..." said Brenda K. Jones, chairwoman of the HBCU Coalition of Pitt County’s Social Action Committee, and member of the Shaw University Alumni Association. "We have been involved with the coalition... right now. It is an opportunity for us to highlight unfulfilled promises made by our local communities."

"The goal of the coalition is to start a conversation..." said Brenda K. Jones, chairwoman of the HBCU Coalition of Pitt County’s Social Action Committee, and member of the Shaw University Alumni Association. "We have been involved with the coalition... right now. It is an opportunity for us to highlight unfulfilled promises made by our local communities."

"Every day, we see people of color who are languishing in the shadows, in the community, in the workplace, everywhere. People are living with mental health issues, Cole told BlackPressUSA.

"And every body's..." Sanders-Smith insists. "And every body's got a story to tell. It's overwhelming. Two-thirds of those people are doing it in the shadows because they don't know how to confront it. They don't know how to deal with it," he pointed out.

"But this year, Cole started the Mental Health Coalition and joined forces with the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) to help shift the narrative and reframe the conversation. Together, the organizations want people to know that they're not alone in their struggle with mental illness. They are encouraging everyone to vocalize their battles and seek the help they need."

"Silence is not something we can continue to accept. People are afraid of being judged and persecuted," Cole pointed out. "But this year, Cole started the Mental Health Coalition and joined forces with the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI) to help shift the narrative and reframe the conversation. Together, the organizations want people to know that they're not alone in their struggle with mental illness. They are encouraging everyone to vocalize their battles and seek the help they need."

A good news is that Elizabeth City, home to Barnwell State School, has the highest percentage of people who are vaccinated in the state and are in their 18 to 25-aged group. The community is better prepared to handle the pandemic and is making progress.

For 23 years, the HBCU Coalition of Pitt County – a partnership of several HBCU alumni organizations – has been sponsoring and hosting a college fair that brings in hundreds of students.

"It is vital that no one is left behind in this process, and that everyone who is a part of our effort has the opportunity to learn and grow."

Ms. Brenda K. Jones is proud to partner with Well Being Trust, a guide to help parents, organizations, and policymakers make the hard choices to promote Children's Mental Health. Together, the organizations have been working hard to make sure that our children are safe, healthy and able to equitably access the resources they need.
Novant Health is grateful for the opportunity to help transform healthcare in southeastern North Carolina through our proposed partnership with NHRMC.

By partnering with Novant Health, you can expect the remarkable.

- Providing more expansive and inclusive financial assistance than is currently available, meaning you can earn more and still qualify to receive free care
- More than $1 billion invested in community benefit annually so more people get the care they need
- Opening clinics, needed services and “food pharmacies” in our most underserved areas to improve access to equal care and preventively address health conditions
- Partnering with providers who reflect the communities we serve because we believe personalized care is better for all

Discover all the remarkable plans we have in store
Visit NovantHealth.org/bettertogether
Addressing the need for healthcare & healthy food

Here in Coastal North Carolina, people of color are being disproportionately impacted by this health and humanitarian crisis, requiring improved access to healthcare services and food assistance.

At Bank of America, our commitment is unwavering. Building on work we’ve had underway for many years, we’re investing $1 billion over the next four years to advance racial equality and economic opportunity, and the well-being of our neighbors — including right here in Coastal North Carolina. We’re partnering with local healthcare systems and nonprofits that are increasing medical testing and treatment capacity and are providing enhanced access to nutritious food.

Together, my teammates and I are working for healthy, sustainable change here in Coastal North Carolina. We’re committed to doing more, and doing more now.

Derek Cohen
Coastal North Carolina Market President

Healthier together
Here in Coastal North Carolina, we’re working with local organizations that are providing vital access to healthcare and nutritious food. They include:
The Food Bank of Central and Eastern North Carolina at Wilmington

To learn more, please visit bankofamerica.com/community
Women Twice as Likely as Men to Have Depression

According to the National Institute of Mental Health, the symptoms of depression can include:

- Persistent sad, anxious, or "empty" mood
- Feelings of hopelessness, or pessimism
- Irritability
- Feelings of guilt, worthlessness, or helplessness
- Loss of interest or pleasure in hobbies and activities
- Increased or decreased appetite
- Insomnia, or oversleeping
- Difficulty concentrating, remembering, or making decisions
- Fatigue
- Thoughts of death or suicide, or suicide attempts
- Moving or talking more slowly
- Feelings of guilt, worthlessness, or helplessness
- Difficulty concentrating, remembering, or making decisions
- Changes in weight loss or weight gain
- Feelings of hopelessness, or pessimism
- Persistent sad, anxious, or "empty" mood
- Decreased energy or fatigue
- Difficulty sleeping, early-morning awakening, or oversleeping
- Appetite and/or weight changes

New Study Suggests COVID Patients More Susceptible to Mental Illness

Researchers at Oxford University in Britain noted that first-time diagnosis of anxiety, depression, and post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) were twice as high as those without COVID-19.

African Americans comprise more than 20 percent of the total deaths in the United States. Black and other communities of color continue to suffer disproportionately from the economic consequences of the coronavirus pandemic, according to the Urban Institute.

Over one-quarter of adults in Black households surveyed between August 19-31 said their economic needs on the previous week were behind on rent payments. And approximately one-third of African Americans shared a job loss or furlough since the coronavirus pandemic, including more than 62,000 cases of COVID-19.

The findings are likely to be borne out by similar findings around the world, according to researchers.

In the three months following testing positive for COVID, 1 in 5 survivors were recorded as having a first-time diagnosis of anxiety, depression, or insomnia — about twice as high as other groups of patients in the same period, the researchers said.

The study further revealed that people with a pre-existing mental illness were 65 percent more likely to be diagnosed with these conditions than those without.

More than 10 million Americans have been hospitalized with the coronavirus, and over 230,000 have died.

The team looked at more than 240,000 patients treated between 2010 and 2013. "Overall, 33.7 percent of patients with newly diagnosed depression initiated treatment," they wrote in their report published in the Journal of General Internal Medicine.

Older people and ethnic minorities were less likely to get treatment, the team found.

It’s not clear why so few get treatment, but Beth Waitzfelder of the Kaiser Permanente Center for Health Research in Honolulu, who led the study, thinks stigma is a factor.

"Our study shows there is a lot more work to do to understand why many depressed patients do not begin treatment," Waitzfelder added.

Not everyone who is depressed experiences every symptom," NIMH says. "Some people experience only a few symptoms while others may experience many.

Treatment can include several different types of medication, therapy and brain stimulation.

Often, there’s no clear cause of depression. According to the National Alliance on Mental Illness, early childhood trauma, genetics, major life changes, medical conditions and substance abuse can all cause or worsen depression.

Separately, a team at Kaiser Permanente found that only just over a third of patients started some kind of treatment within the first six months of having been diagnosed with depression.
Tonya Jackson Named New Hanover County’s Social Services Director

NEW HANOVER COUNTY, NC—New Hanover County, after a national search, has appointed Tonya Jackson to serve as the new Social Services director within the Health and Human Services agency beginning on December 1, 2020. Jackson is currently the county’s Social Services assistant director for economic and family services, a role she has served in for three years.

“Tonya is a dedicated public servant, having worked in the health and human services field for 20 years in New Hanover, Brunswick, and Guilford counties,” said County Manager Chris Coudriet. “She has a successful track record of developing innovative processes that have been recognized as best practices throughout the state. And most recently the county’s initiative to provide $1.3 million in COVID-19 childcare and housing assistance to those who need it most, a program that has now been replicated in other counties across the state. I am so pleased that she has been able to grow within our organization and take on an even greater leadership role in this director.”

Before joining New Hanover County’s team, Jackson served as a manager for Brunswick County’s Social Services and also managed the Brunswick County Social Services and Economic Assistance Center (BSEAC). Prior to that, she worked for Guilford County Social Services for 15 years, serving as a program manager in the Adult Services and Economic Assistance Center (BSEAC). She holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Management from Guilford College and a Masters of Business Administration from Strayer University.

“I am honored to be selected for this role as director, and to have the opportunity to lead the social services work as part of our consolidated Health and Human Services agency,” said Jackson. “I have worked at all levels of the social services industry, and understand and appreciate our staff’s incredible commitment to the community we serve. I am proud of the work our agency does, and I look forward to even more internal and external collaboration internally and with our community partners to ensure we serve the needs of our diverse community in the best ways possible.”

COVID-19 Worsens Debt Collector Harassment

New CFPB Rule Leaves Room for State Actions

By Charlene Crowell, Senior Fellow with the Center for Responsible Lending

NNPA NEWSWIRE

As the final days of the 2020 election season drew to a close, major media across the nation focused on poll results and prospects for the presidential candidates. At the same time, scant news coverage reported on a development affecting 88 million consumers: debt collection regulation.

On October 30, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) released its 653-page regulatory revision for enforcement of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA), originally enacted in 1977. Since that time, the debt collection industry has grown into a multi-billion industry with over 8,000 firms throughout the country. For Black America, debt collection is a problem even before the COVID-19 pandemic. One investigation revealed that in three major cities—Chicago, Newark, and St. Louis—the rate of judgments for debt collection lawsuits was twice as high in mostly Black neighborhoods than in mostly white areas. Nearly a year ago, Urban Institute research found that debt collection disproportionately affects 42% of communities of color. By contrast, the national average small consumer was lower in double-digits at 31%, and a wider racial gap among whites at 26%

The largest portion of debt collection activity was among the latest and most visible financial predators. In addition, the CFPB’s own 2017 survey found that 44% of borrowers of color reported having been contacted about a debt, compared to 29% of similarly situated whites. Even when accounting for differences in income, communities of color are disproportionately sued by debt collectors. In fact, 45% of borrowers of color in neighborhoods of color faced litigation, while only 27% of similarly situated consumers in white areas were sued.

DEBT COLLECTOR

Continued on pg. 7
5 Ways Climate Change Affects the Mental Health of Young People

By Frank Butler

The European Union and the US have reported that teenage mental health is suffering from the effects of climate change. Many young people are engaged in climate activism and are experiencing increased stress, depression, anxiety, and despair. In turn, these factors can lead to a range of mental health problems.

POSITIVE:

Youth are leading the way in fighting climate change by forming massive protests around the globe. "Climate justice is a fight for the future," Landis says. "I'm excited. I think people are really starting to notice that humanity is really facing a big problem." To keep the movement going, Landis says that people need to become engaged in the climate crisis and to participate in the call to action.

NEGATIVE:

According to Landis, many young people are experiencing mental health issues due to climate change. "Young people are at the forefront of this crisis," Landis says. "They're experiencing anxiety and depression because of the stress they're feeling." To help mitigate these effects, Landis suggests that people take action by engaging in climate activism and by supporting those who are fighting for a better future.

Impacts and Solutions:

It's important to recognize the impact climate change has on mental health and to take action to address it. By working together, we can make a difference and ensure that young people have a healthy and sustainable future.

The Mental Health Coalition:

The Mental Health Coalition is a group of mental health professionals and activists who are working to address the impact of climate change on mental health. They are working to promote awareness, provide resources, and advocate for policy changes to help mitigate the effects of climate change on mental health.

Resources:

For more information on climate change and mental health, visit the Mental Health Coalition Website at www.mentalhealthcoalition.org. To get screened or to get help, visit NAMI.org/covid-19. If you or someone you know is in crisis, call 1-800-273-TALK (8255) to reach a 24-hour crisis center or text MHA to 741741 at the Crisis Text Line; or call 911 or go to the nearest emergency room if you or someone you know is in crisis.
Ready, set, go! As you would at the start of the line of race, this hectic pace is how mornings begin for many men and women. Start off with a good walk to face another hectic morning, consider this view for a healthier way to ease into your day. 30 minutes of slow walking or activity can require you to allow extra time, you may be working in some stretches can also be beneficial. When you awake, find a peaceful spot, get off the couch, muscles and extend your body.

Activate. Give your brain some functioning while also doing something nice for your mind. For example, journaling is a gentle way to ease into your morning and get your brain firing. If you can’t think of a topic, simply write down a few words to get started. Remember to limit the ability of debt collectors to communicate as you choose and to make smarter choices that can help you eat right and maintain a safe, decent and comfortable standard of living within the community. The report also recommends that states adopt a “reasonable amount of money” to enable debtors to pay daily living costs such as rent, utilities, daily care, and food.

This gap in state regulation became evident when federal stimulus checks were deposited in families’ bank accounts and then garnished by debt collectors. Further, and debtors to keep a “reasonable amount of money” to enable debtors to pay daily living costs such as rent, utilities, daily care, and food.

This gap in state regulation became evident when federal stimulus checks were deposited in families’ bank accounts and then garnished by debt collectors. Further, and debtors to keep a “reasonable amount of money” to enable debtors to pay daily living costs such as rent, utilities, daily care, and food.

"The devil is in the details, our role is to make sure that consumers are protected from abuse,” said Christine Kraninger, CFPB’s Director, Kathleen Kraninger, said, “Our rule, CFPB’s Director, Kathleen Kraninger, said, “Our rule, CFPB’s Director, Kathleen Kraninger, said, “Our rule… And our rule will allow collectors to contact consumers with more effort, even when consumers are not interested. In some cases, collectors have been making multiple calls or even messages. Our rule applies to these protections to modern technologies—and our rule will allow collectors, if they prefer, to limit the ability of debt collectors to communicate with them through those new communications methods.” But for now, debtors, civil rights and legal advocates who filed public comments on the proposed rule, the announcement sent mixed messages for what it proposed as well as what it delayed. The devil is in the details, and we will have to scour this complex proposal to determine what it does not do open up fronts for debt collectors’ pervasiveness and abusive treatment of any debtor,” said Christine Hines, legislative director at National Consumer Advocacy Committee. “Through the guise of modernization, the debt collector rule could cost consumers up for a morning routine—add working in some stretches can also be beneficial. When you awake, find a peaceful spot, get off the couch, muscles and extend your body.

Activate. Give your brain some functioning while also doing something nice for your mind. For example, journaling is a gentle way to ease into your morning and get your brain firing. If you can’t think of a topic, simply write down a few words to get started. Remember to limit the ability of debt collectors to communicate as you choose and to make smarter choices that can help you eat right and maintain a safe, decent and comfortable standard of living within the community. The report also recommends that states adopt a “reasonable amount of money” to enable debtors to pay daily living costs such as rent, utilities, daily care, and food.

This gap in state regulation became evident when federal stimulus checks were deposited in families’ bank accounts and then garnished by debt collectors. Further, and debtors to keep a “reasonable amount of money” to enable debtors to pay daily living costs such as rent, utilities, daily care, and food.

"The devil is in the details, our role is to make sure that consumers are protected from abuse,” said Christine Kraninger, CFPB’s Director, Kathleen Kraninger, said, “Our rule, CFPB’s Director, Kathleen Kraninger, said, “Our rule… And our rule will allow collectors to contact consumers with more effort, even when consumers are not interested. In some cases, collectors have been making multiple calls or even messages. Our rule applies to these protections to modern technologies—and our rule will allow collectors, if they prefer, to limit the ability of debt collectors to communicate with them through those new communications methods.” But for now, debtors, civil rights and legal advocates who filed public comments on the proposed rule, the announcement sent mixed messages for what it proposed as well as what it delayed. The devil is in the details, and we will have to scour this complex proposal to determine what it does not do open up fronts for debt collectors’ pervasiveness and abusive treatment of any debtor,” said Christine Hines, legislative director at National Consumer Advocacy Committee. “Through the guise of modernization, the debt collector rule could cost consumers...
You are worth more than red flags and broken mirrors. Love does not equal violence.

There is help and there is hope.

The THE SAME AMOUNT OF STAFF THAT SLOWED DOWN THE CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM IN WILMINGTON, NC CAN SLOW DOWN THE SHOOTING CRISIS. There are many community groups doing a great job with their limited resources to help solve this crisis. We need these leaders to develop a department to deal with this crisis, a lack of jobs and job training crisis. They can secure grants to coordinate with the other community groups. Whatever task for ce Wilmington ton has been paying to work on these problems are doing nothing and must be replaced. Drive-by shooters, your mother, dad, brother, sister, aunt, uncle, cousins, teachers, friends, the minister (the last time you were in a church and you received power, all. “Do not kill!”

Gunfighters, you say you could not do four years in high school because it was boring, but the gangster, you can do in twenty years in a boring filthy prison with no heat or cold air. The food is worse than a school lunch and if they serve a dessert, the older and stronger ones will take it from you. Remember there is not enough space to keep prisoners on free feet, no fan, no fresh of breakfast lunch or dinner, few bottles of hand liquid or wipes to sanitize the bars, not enough warm water to wash your hands seven times a day, but there is an abundance of Covid-19, a “real killer”, in many cells. A brave, MAN, REV. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., once said in a speech.

“Before you speak negatively about a person ask yourself, is it true, necessary, helpful and teach you something?” If your answer is NO, maybe you should keep your mouth shut and mine your own business. Before you show your “running buddies” that you are BAD and will shoot anyone who disrespects you. Take a long look in your mirror and tell yourself then “your homeboy is better to light a candle than to pursue the darkness. Find a job, any job and remember that work is not punishment, but abiding. Start working on your GED, learn a trade, go to community college. Listen to your parents, teachers, positive friends and follow the teachings of your grandmothers and grandfather’s higher power.

There are many who are willing to help you to get there. But you must do your part. A graduate student from the University of Georgia focuses on sports psychology, which is an area that measures how the mind affects our bodies. In sports psychology, we look at things like motivation, anxiety, and depression. These are all things that can be controlled. Even in the most stressful situations, there are ways to manage your emotions and stay focused.

The Silent Injury is an issue that affects many different people in society. This issue can be a result of neglect or lack of attention, and it can have serious consequences for those who suffer from it. The Silent Injury can be physically, mentally, and emotionally damaging, and it can take years to fully recover from it.

In addition to the Silent Injury, there are many other issues that can affect mental health. These include anxiety, depression, and post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD). PTSD can be caused by traumatic events, such as military service, natural disasters, and violent crimes. It can be a difficult issue to deal with, and it can have a serious impact on a person’s life.

Conclusion:

The Silent Injury is an issue that affects many different people in society. This issue can be a result of neglect or lack of attention, and it can have serious consequences for those who suffer from it. The Silent Injury can be physically, mentally, and emotionally damaging, and it can take years to fully recover from it.

The Silent Injury can be an issue that affects many different people in society. This issue can be a result of neglect or lack of attention, and it can have serious consequences for those who suffer from it. The Silent Injury can be physically, mentally, and emotionally damaging, and it can take years to fully recover from it.
Nota: Las imágenes en el documento no han sido extraídas correctamente. La corrección y análisis de imágenes no se ha realizado correctamente. Si desea que se realice un análisis correcto, debe proporcionar imágenes de alta calidad y correctas para su análisis.
acock & Associates Architecture
Baker Construction
Belmont Brothers, Inc.
Beyersby Construction
Beyersby, LLC
Beyersby, Inc.
Beyersby, P.A.
Beyersby/ Riddle & Associates
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.
Beyersby, W. L., P.A.